

ALEXANDRIA

TUESDAY EVENING, APRIL 9.

SOME NORTHERN people talk as if they really believe that a considerable number of the white democrats of the South are prorectionists and will leave the democratic party on the tariff question. If they are sincere, they were never more mistaken The negroes in the South vote as a unit for republican candidates, no matter whom they be or what measures they advocate, and as a division of the white vote would enable the negroes to elect men of their own race, or white demagogues who, to gain their votes, cater to their ignorance and prejudice and stimulate their animosity against their white neighbors, the white vote of this section must also be practically solid, to preserve law and order and to protect their property and lives of those who cast it, and it will remain so until the danger of negro rule be removed. In the face of that danger, the tariff is a matter of comparative insignificance.

THE HATE too many northern people entertain for their fellow citizens of the South is so intense that it completely blinds them and renders them incapable of distinguishing between right and wrong, and therefore of rendering correct judgment upon any question that has even the slightest reference to the South. As proof of this, the chief reason assigned by some of the Southhaters referred to for the many public tributes they have paid to the memory of Lewis Hayden, a negro who recently died in Boston, is that it was in his house that the plan of the John Brown raid was perfected, an infamous plan, that included all the horrors of a servile insurrection. And yet these same people would abhor the memory of a creature who contemplated the commission of such brutal and cruel atrocities in a northern State.

THE ARREST and indictment of the walk ing delegate and some of the other officers of an assembly of knights of labor in New York, for an attempt to blow up a non-union brewery in that city, involving not only los-of property but of life also, and that, too, of Richmond, were married in Baltimore yesbrewery in that city, involving not only lospeople who had done them no harm, and terday. with some of whom they were not even ac quainted, shows how fancied wrong may in duce unthicking men, who vainly suppose they are protected by secret organizations, to commit crimes that bring suffering upon themselves and discredit upon the cause they profess to have at heart. Such crimes must be as abhorrent to right thinking knights of labor as to any other people, and must necessarily retard the object the knights have in view.
